Freie Universität Berlin

Inclusion into everyday life at Freie Universität Berlin

Challenge

Freie Universität Berlin was in need of new media equipment for three lecture halls as well as the Henry Ford Building, including a system to reduce auditory barriers for students and guests.

Solution

The Sennheiser MobileConnect system was installed in the lecture halls of the university to make information and content easily accessible to all students and visitors: MobileConnect works via a free app on the user's own smartphone and allows easy selection of voice channels and individual customization of the audio signal.
